RECOMMENDS MORE LAND

COMMITTEE'S REPORT ACCEPTED BY CITY COUNCIL

NAME KUSTER ESTATE

Men Investigating Proposition to Enlarge Oak Hill Cemetery Suggest Beautification of Grounds

Anticipating future needs of the city, a committee of five representative citizens, who were appointed to investigate the advisability of acquiring more property for Oak Hill Cemetery north of the city, reported favorable and recommended the purchase of seven and a half acres of the Kuster estate, which report was accepted by the city council in special session last night. The city council adjourned, after accepting the report, to Monday night when further action will be taken in this regard.

This tract of land mentioned in the recommendation of the committee, which was composed of Joseph Jackson, Fred Kurtz, Howard Strong, E. C. Curfman and L. E. Forsyth, lies between the west boundary of Oak Hill Cemetery and the state highway No. 18 on the west, comprising seven and a half acres. This land, the property of the Edmund Kuster estate, Mr. Kuster having died about a year ago, is being held for $750 an acre, and there were certain members of the committee who were of the opinion this was a little high.

The south boundary of the tract is co-extensive with the south line of the cemetery. Four acres lie on the south side of the present road leading from the state highway into the cemetery and three and a half acres are on the north side of the road. In probate court this tract was appraised at $5,500 and since then the state highway, a concrete road, has been laid along the west side of it. At $750 an acre the purchase price would be $5,625, just $125 more than the value appraised in probate court a year ago. Mortgages aggregating $3,200, made in 1921 are carried, which were made on the basis of 60 per cent of the value of the land at that time, or $5,667 valuation four years ago.

Further recommendation was suggested by the committee to the city council that in event this Kuster land was purchased, only that part as might be necessary for the present demands, be plotted and offered for sale, and that the rest be improved and beautified. Mayor W. O. Garrett this morning gave it as his opinion that for the present needs, only two acres off the east side of this seven and a half acre tract, in case that it is purchased, would be required for the purpose of plotting off and offering for sale.

This would leave the west five and a half acres abutting the state highway that would be available for improvement. Suggestions have been offered by some influential Maryville persons that in the improvement of additional property to the Oak Hill Cemetery, a sexton's home be erected near the southwest corner of the tract, an attractive winding entrance constructed to the burial plots, as the present road is narrow, and that the portion of the tract near the road be landscaped, and trees, shrubs and flowers started. This would establish Maryville, in their opinion, on a plane with other progressive cities that are beautifying their burial grounds according to the modern tendencies.

Oak Hill Cemetery in itself possesses historical values by reason of it being the final resting place of many pioneers of the city and by retaining this cemetery and adding additional land, beautified in accordance to the times, is befitting of the value it lends to the city, giving Maryville a municipal cemetery which would be the pride of every citizen.

The creation of a cemetery fund, into which would go proceeds from lot sales, and kept separate from the city funds, was also suggested by the committee of five men. Heretofore money received from the sale of lots has been placed in the general fund, and expenses for the cemetery paid out of the general fund and no separate record kept of it.

The council at its meeting last night passed a motion for the final adoption of a paving ordinance for Lincoln street between Main and Buchanan streets, specifying seven inch re-inforced concrete.

Say McAdoo's Son Is Arrested in Hollywood

Police Report That Son for Former Secretary of Treasury Drove Car While Intoxicated.

Los Angeles, July 18.—A man giving the name of William Gibbs McAdoo, Jr., arrested on a charge of intoxication while driving an automobile, was identified today by Hollywood police as the son of William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of Treasury and Democratic candidate for the nomination for the presidency last year.

McAdoo, 30, who gave his business as "oil man" was arrested at a street intersection in Hollywood when two officers said they noticed an automobile being driven in an uncertain manner. A bottle of whiskey was found in McAdoo's possession, police reported.

BENNETT LANE ROUTE URGED

NUMBER OF PETITIONS TO BE CIRCULATED.

FEAR FLOOD DAMAGE

Those Behind Movement Say Highway Commission Would Not Be Compelled To Spend Large Sums

An extensive effort is under way to urge the State Highway Commission to route the hard-surfaced highway between Maryville and Savannah along what is known as the Bennett Lane route, it was learned here today.

Petitions will be circulated in Nodaway and Andrew counties to be presented to the commission urging this change in the routing.

E. Wood of Bolckow was in Maryville recently in the interest of the Bennett Lane route. It is understood that such petitions will be circulated in Maryville, Barnard, Bolckow and Rosendale within a short time.

Those back of the proposal hold that the Bennett Lane route should be used in order to keep the travel out of the overflow territory of the One Hundred and Two River, White Cloud Creek and the other branches running into the river.

It is contended that these flood waters would damage many rods of the road construction every year as is the case with the Burlington tracks. Those favoring the Bennett Lane route hold that the flood waters would not be so menacing there and that the highway commision would not be compelled to spend large sums annually in maintaining the hard-surfaced road.

It is understood, that some final action will be taken in a short time so that the highway commission will be able to let the grading contracts this year for a considerable portion of the highway between here and Savannah.

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED

SCHOOL BOARD ENJOINED ON TAX LEVY

SET HEARING OCT. 5

Levies of 25 Cents and 15 Cents Can't Be Extended or Collected, According to Order.

A temporary injunction was granted by Judge John M. Dawson in vacation of the Nodaway County circuit court, restraining certain members of the board of education of the school district of Conception Junction from levying a total tax of 40 cents against taxable property in the school district.

Final hearing was set for October 5, the first day of the October term of circuit court.

This injunction was granted this morning by Judge Dawson on petition of Gabe Purcell, J. A. Klaas, Leo King, Thomas F. Merrigan and P. R. Growney, who had filed an injunction against Anton M. Schaffer, J. H. Jamison, Henry J. Alden and James C. Donaldson, who constitute a majority of board of education of the school district of Conception Junction; Gertrude Walsh, collector of revenue of Jefferson township; and Fred Smith, county clerk.

In the temporary injunction that was issued it was set forth by the court that the plaintiffs were entitled to relief that was sought and ordered that a temporary injunction and restraining order be granted.

This injunction enjoins any of the defendants or their servants from causing a tax of 25 cents on the $100 valuation for a building fund and another tax of 15 cents for a sinking fund against the property in the district for the year of 1925. Fred Smith, county clerk, is restrained and prohibited, according to the injunction issued, to deliver to the collector such tax book with the aforesaid tax or any part thereof extended thereon.

Gertrude Walsh is restrained from demanding or receiving any tax on the taxable property of the city under and by virtue of the aforesaid mentioned levies of 15 cents and 25 cents on the $100 valuation for building purposes and sinking fund. Defendants who are members of the school board, are enjoined from causing the tax of 25 cents and 15 cents to be extended on the tax books or causing the same to be collected and further enjoined from transferring any money or funds now in or that may hereafter come into the building fund of the district or any sinking fund, to any other fund of the school district mentioned or consuming the money or funds in the building fund and the sinking fund for the purpose of paying teachers or incidental or contingent expenses of the district.

All this is in effect until further order of the court in these premises.

Need More Money for Cemetery Road

If the amount is secured, the contract will be let sometime next week, Mr. Price said.

IOWAN CAUGHT WITH LIQUOR

HEAVY FINE AND PENALTY PLACED ON GEORGE SHULTZ.

ARRESTED LAST NIGHT

Draws $550 Fine, 6 Months in Jail—Companion, Floyd Cowles, Is Released.

George Shultz of Shenandoah, Ia., charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, entered a plea of guilty this afternoon before Justice Warren L. Johnson. His punishment was assessed at a fine of $500 and sentenced to six months in the county jail by Judge Johnson.

Five gallons of liquid, alleged to be alcohol, but thought by authorities to be none other than renovated wood alcohol, was confiscated by Sheriff L. B. Campbell, Deputy Sheriff Bernard Dougan and Officer Leo Atherton last night in the vicinity of the Jefferson school building and George Shultz of Shenandoah was in jail this morning awaiting preliminary hearing before Justice W. L. Johnson this afternoon.

Lloyd Cowles, also of Shenandoah, was suspected of being implicated with Shultz and was apprehended prior to his intention of boarding a freight for Shenandoah. However, this morning he was released on lack of evidence.

At the time Shultz, who is between 30 and 35 years of age, was arrested last night where he was in a Dodge touring car which was in the yard of Tom Elders, negro, in the east part of the city between First and Second streets.

Charges of possession were filed against him today by prosecuting attorney, George Pat Wright. Shultz is a government patient receiving aid, and it is the opinion of the officers he is a bootlegger by trade.

Men of Modern Learning Gather At Isolated Temporary Home of Clarence Darrow, Defense Attorney.

Dayton, Tenn., July 18—Barred from the courtroom where science and religion were engaged for a "duel to the death," eight apostles of modern learning today gave secret testimony reconciling evolution to the Bible before an audience of attorneys for John T. Scopes.

The scientific story of man's creation, excluded from the Scopes trial by judicial decree, will go to the Tennessee Supreme Court and possibly to the United States Supreme Court on the defense's appeal of the expected conviction to test the constitutionality of the anti-evolution law.

It will be entered on the records of the case Monday when the trial will be resumed after a two-day recess.

The men of science, who hold that evolution does not deny divine creation, testified in affidavit form at the instance of defense attroneys.

They met in the mansion, a misnamed rambling frame building held destroyed by wind and rain, perched on a wooded knoll overlooking Dayton. It is the temporary home of Clarence Darrow.

STARTLING EVIDENCE OF CORRUPTION UNCOVERED.

SOME AID IN CRIME

Number of Officials, Hostile to Volstead Act, Wink at Violations, Reports From Country Show.

Washington, July 18.—Startling evidence of corruption of public officials in enforcement of the federal prohibition law has been submitted to Attorney-General Sargent by United States attorneys in virtually every section of the country, it became known today.

Many officers, federal, state, county and city, catering to public opinion, said to be adverse to the Volstead act, are winking at violations or are in actual league with the rum trust, according to the information.

Reports from the United States attorneys will be turned over to Gen. L. C. Andrews, dry law enforcing officer, to guide him in his reorganization of the prohibition system, it was learned. As a result, according to the reports, hundreds of agents and officers will be dropped when the organization of the prohibition system is made public. Officials intimated that charges may be preferred against many.

Sargent sent questionnaires to all United States attorneys to obtain an inside picture of the prohibition enforcement unit. They were asked to submit the names and number of alleged crooked officials, both federal and otherwise, the attitude of public officials on the Volstead act, the names and addresses of known violators of the law, and the extent of political pressure against enforcement.

More than forty district attorneys have replied, it is understood. Many of them attribute the lack of enforcement effectiveness to unfavorable public opinion.

One hundred and fifty tanks of chlorine gas exploded as the flames reached them. Fifteen automobiles stored in another shed were destroyed.

U. S. CONTROL IS CONSIDERED

GOVERNMENT MAY TAKE HAND IN MINING INDUSTRY.

QUICK ACTION NEEDED

President Coolidge Has Already Talked Over Situation With Secretary Davis—May Call Hoover.

Swampscott, Mass., July 18.—President Coolidge, staunch advocate of less government in business, is reluctantly reaching the conclusion that the ultimate solution of the coal problem must be federal control, it was learned here today.

Federal ownership the executive would not countenance but he has confided to visitors that he fears control will be necessary. Mr. Coolidge is not unaware of the desire of both operators and miners for government regulation of the industry, the operators because of the special profit that might accrue to them, and the miners because of the assurance of steady and perhaps better wages.

The unsound economic structure of the coal industry also comes in for consideration. Over-production and sharp competition between the union and non-union miners have brought about an unhealthy condition that is steadily growing worse.

Federal control can be had only by Congressional legislation. The President, if he finally determines on such a course, must therefore wait until December when Congress convenes.

In the meantime, anthracite miners and operators are hopelessly deadlocked in their conference at Atlantic City over a new wage contract. To avert a strike on September 1, the President must take almost immediate action. Already, Mr. Coolidge has conferred with James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, on the situation. It is expected he will next call in Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, and turn over to him the actual business of mediation.

The governor is expected to call for questioning three new purported witnesses upon whose testimony depends the fate of the man whose death on the gallows yesterday was halted at the last moment by a week's reprieve.

Two of these witnesses are women whose names are withheld by Scott's attorneys. The other is James M. Ball, employed as an operator by the Postal Telegraph Co. at Detroit, Mich.

FARM LIFE IS DIFFERENT

The farmer knows that life in the country has not always been the idyllic existence the country-hungry city folks have pictured it. But the "new farmer" can not remember the struggle against nature and the days of sun-up to sun-down toil once the lot of the older men and women on the farm. The modern farm is as unlike its antecedents as the modern factory is unlike its prototype and as the modern city home is unlike the home of two decades ago.

On the farm today are found the automobile, tractor, telephone, electric lights and power, milking machines, harvesting and planting machinery performing several operations simultaneously, the radio, the household comforts and conveniences of the city home and even leisure and recreation. The prodigal son wouldn't know the old farm if he returned today after an absence of two decades.

True it is that some farmers still employ the primitive methods of agriculture and refuse to emancipate themselves from their slavery to the soil by adopting labor-saving devices. And it is just as true that the agriculturists as a class have been somewhat slow to adopt modern methods.

The time is not long past when "new-fangled notions" were distrusted on the farm. The "old way" was good enough for the fathers and what was good enough for the fathers was good enough for the sons when they succeeded to the management of the farm. It was not vanity nor obstinacy which caused good farmers to scoff at scientific methods in those days, the best of farmers sincerely believed they could get out of the soil only what the soil yielded of its own volition.

The change on the farm has been nothing short of revolutionary and the revolutionists have been the men and women who for generations had stubbornly resisted change and impeded progress. They know now that nature yields more when carefully studied and scientifically handled.

GET PUBLICITY FOR MISSOURI

Three of our neighboring towns this spring did the unusual thing by electing a woman as mayor. In so doing they gained publicity for this section of Missouri as far west as California. The San Diego Union commented as follows:

"Three towns in Missouri—Parnell, Quitman, and Graham—now are ruled by women, each town having elected a woman to the executive chair."

And the San Francisco Chronicle says this:

"Three Missouri towns will be run entirely by women the coming year in which they will not differ in any way from all other Missouri towns."

There is just one correction we would like to make on this item. Why confine it to Missouri towns?

Together on Peace Program of Nation

Agreement On World Court and Outlawry of War Is Reached—To Be Presented To Senate.

Washington, July 18.—Representatives of various peace societies that have been divided between support of the world court and the counter-proposition for "outlawry of war" announced yesterday an agreement had been reached on a common program, which would be laid before the senate at the next session.

Their new proposal calls for immediate entrance of the United States into the world court on a basis of the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge reservations. There would be an understanding that if the nations of Europe, within a specified time, did not call an international conference for negotiating a general treaty outlawing war, the United States might withdraw from the court.

Clarke a Signor.

Among the signatories are:

John H. Clarke, formerly justice of the supreme court, now president of the League of Nations Nonpartisan Association; Prof. James T. Shotwell, director of the Carnegie endowment for international peace and co-author of the American plan for disarmament and security submitted to the league assembly at Geneva last September; Raymond Robins; Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century; S. O. Levison, chairman of the American committee for the outlawry of war; Miss Mary Dreier, National Women's Trade Union League; Judge Julian W. Mack, United States circuit court, and Sherwood Eddy, secretary of the national council of the Y. M. C. A.

It is explained the signatures are personal and do not bind the organizations with which the signers are associated.

This joint proposal, according to those who framed it, represents a marked advance toward uniting the divided peace forces of the country. Several members of the group formerly had been opposed strenuously to entrance of the United States into the present world court, and, on the other hand, several other members heretofore had withheld indorsement of the basic ideas of the movement to outlaw war.

Mostly League Advocates.

Nearly all the twenty-five spokesmen for the various peace organizations who signed the agreement, including Mr. Clarke, it may be noted, are ardent League of Nations advocates. They are conducting an intensive campaign for American membership in the world court as the first step toward getting the United States into the league. The controversy among the peace leaders over methods was weakening their effectiveness in propaganda, so they got together on a program covering both the court and outlawry of war.

As the world court resolution is set for consideration for December 17, the agreement of the peace societies is regarded as the forerunner of an intensive campaign to sway public sentiment on the court question.

No Mystery Is Connected With Steady Growth of Many Cities in America

The following is the concluding installment of the article on "Community Advertising," written for the Democrat-Forum and Tribune by D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

George M. Verity, president of the American Rolling Mills, says: "It is my feeling that the solution of the great national and world problems of the day must come largely through the individual local community, large and small. Commerce, industry, and the community must join hands in the creation of such conditions as will enable the people to enjoy progress, prosperity and happiness. In this task the local Chamber of Commerce should so meet the great emergency and opportunity of the times that it will gather round it the support, not only of every business institution in its circle, but also of the individual support of every man and woman in the community. At this time when real democracy is facing possibly its greatest test, the organization gives abundant opportunity for constructive community leadership, and for the creation of that sort of spirit which will face every demand of American citizenship cheerfully.

In reviewing "Community Advertising" by Don E. Mowry, Gen. Sec'y. of the Madison, Wisc., Ass'n. of Commerce, I have endeavored to show that there is no mystery connected with the prosperous growth of modern American communities. The same vigorous application of sound business principals which insures success for private endeaver will, in like manner, rewarded co-operative action.

What the city of Maryville is today is the sum total of all the effort of all the people who have ever lived here. What it is in 1935 will be determined by those who live here now and come here during that time.

WHAT SHALL IT BE? "YOUR" ANSWER WILL HELP DETERMINE THE OUTCOME.

Joseph Jackson, Esq., has purchased the brick for his elegant new residence, and we are informed that work will be commenced immediately thereon. Grasshoppers or no grasshoppers, Joe will erect this summer the finest brick residence in Nodaway County.

John Neal, Esq., brought to our office on last Saturday as fine a specimen of wheat as we have ever seen. This wheat, judging from the heads shown us, would yield at least 35 or 40 bushels to the acre. It was recently damaged by the overflow of the 102 River.

We are requested to announce that the fourth quarterly conference for Maryville's station M. E. Church, South, will be held here July 31 and August 1, and in connection with the 11 o'clock services on Sunday, the funeral services of Mrs. L. J. Neal will be held.

The new firm of Hensley & Shelton, successors to E. M. Moss, in the confectionary bakery and restaurant business, has a local notice in another column.

From reliable authority we learn that the waters have abated at Barnard and that William McCandliss, has been able to save his mill which stood in great danger.

The good people of Conception and vicinity have been seriously annoyed for over a year past on account of their imperfect mail facilities. One year ago they received tri-weekly mail by the way of Maryville, Conception, Mount Pleasant and Albany, the contract on this route expired and the route was discontinued, and the result was the people of Conception receive no mail. Another route was then established by the way of Rosendale and Guilford to Conception. This route though very circuitous was better than none, and the people of that section of the county, on the principle that "a half loaf is better than none" were content. This last contract has now expired and the people of Conception are without a mail.

By a notice in another column it will be seen that the residents of the farming community throughout Nodaway County are requested to bring their best samples of wheat, rye, oats and barley and the stalk, with a view of forwarding the same to the Centennial Exposition to be held at Philadelphia next fall. The samples should be brought to the office of A. P. Morehouse.

NEXT WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY.

Compiled by the State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia. Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary. July 19-25.

Missouri became a state on Wednesday, July 19, 1820. On that day was adopted the first state constitution of Missouri. This constitution at once superceded in sovereign authority the former organic laws of Missouri. Such territorial laws and officers as remained temporarily in force derived their legal power from the express sanction of this constitution. Even on this day, July 19th, President David Barton of the constitutional convention, through power in him vested by that body, issued writs of election to the sheriff of each county. These writs were of the first state election held on August 28, 1820, and were issued under the authority of 'the State of Missouri.' But a year and twenty-two days passed before Missouri was admitted into the Union.

Missouri has had five constitutional conventions but only three constitutions have been operative. The first of these was adopted by the convention of 1820 and remained in force until 1865. The delegates for the first convention assembled on June 12, 1820 at St. Louis in the dining room of Bennett's "Mansion House Hotel." The forty-one men were of strong proslavery tendencies, men of wealth, native ability, and vigor. They were comparatively young in years. David Barton, a leader of unusual power, was made president of the body.

Congress had passed an act authorizing a convention for the purpose of forming a constitution and state government without restriction as to slavery. This was accomplished only after prolonged delay and caused so much impatience among the people of the region, that the convention of 1820 performed its task with dispatch. On July 19 the constitution of 1820 was adopted by the convention, but was never submitted to popular vote. It was easily Missouri's cheapest constitution, costing only $8,791.25.

The legislative work of the convention consisted of adopting certain provisions of the Enabling Act for Missouri and a constitution. The instrument adopted was of a broad, general nature rather than detailed. The preamble was unique. "The State of Missouri" was described in these words, "a free and independent republic." Then followed the definition of boundaries.

The frame of government was provided for in twelve articles dealing with distribution of powers, legislative power, executive power, judicial power, education, internal improvements, banks, militia, miscellaneous provisions, permanent seat of government, mode of amending the constitution, and a declaration of rights, in addition to a schedule containing temporary provisions for facilitating the transfer from territorial to state government.

The articles concerning education and internal improvement were brief and largely confined to a mandate for the encouragement of such matters by the legislature. The article dealing with banks restricted the legislature to the incorporation of one bank with not more than five branches and a maximum capital stock of $5,000,000, half of which must be reserved for the state. The militia article merely provided for the selection of officers, while the seat of government was left to the General Assembly.

The legislative power was bested in a body called, the General Assembly. It was organized on the bicameral system and on the principle of apportionment according to free white male population with a minimum of one delegate from each county to sit in the Lower House. The membership of this house was not to exceed one hundred and that of the Upper House thirty-three. Legislative restrictions were few and these related to slavery. The declaration of rights contained the usual limitations upon the civil and criminal procedure. The all-important branch of the government was the legislative.

Then the three departments of government were to be separate and distinct. The constitution was one of the first to provide a four-year term for the governor, but he was made ineligible to succeed himself. He and the lieutenant-governor were the only executives chosen by popular vote. All of the others were appointed by the governor save the treasurer who obtained his appointment at the hands of the General Assembly in joint session.

The governor also appointed all judges who held office during good behavior. His selections, however, required the approval of the Senate. The governor had the power to veto, but could be overruled by a majority in both houses.

Suffrage and elections played a very small part. All free white adult males could vote except members of the United States Military, but there were few occasions when the right could be exercised. The members of the General Assembly, the governor, and the lieutenant-governor were the only elective state officers. Local government was left to the legislature, except that a sheriff and coroner in each county were to be elected until the General Assembly otherwise provided.

Even in the matter of amending the constitution there was no provision for popular referendum. Amendments were proposed by the General Assembly and ratified at the subsequent session. No provision was made for a general revision.

The instrument was very concise, not containing over 10,000 words. It ADD MO HISTORY ..... elqUpu .... was not a blatant document. Its silence was more significant than its speech. The government it created was a strong one, because of the absence of restraint upon the methods and objects of legislation, the unrestricted power of taxation, and the almost unlimited discretion in the use of public funds and credit.

The constitution of 1820 was typical of the period, occupying a somewhat advanced position in the matter of long terms for legislative members, and officials; large salaries; and biennial sessions instead of annual ones. The democratic movement had barely commenced and did not appreciably affect the constitution. The chief influence came naturally from existing state instruments of recent adoption. Notable among these were those of Alabama, Illinois, Kentucky, and Maine.

CHOICE CUT FLOWERS AND POTTED PLANTS for all occasions. Kissinger Greenhouses Block south of Hospital Phone 374.

The framers of the constitution of 1820 wrought in forecast of the century that has intervened. The social structure of their time was a simple one, a rural community marked by individual independence, and such was reflected in Missouri's first organic law.

"With the arrest Thursday of George Neal, 24, and Clarence L. Spargur, 21, the police say they have put a crimp in the business of stealing motor cars for the purpose of stripping them for parts," the St. Joseph News-Press carried in a story yesterday.

Both these men were confined in the county jail here in January, on charges of burglary and larceny, alleged to have robbed the Stalling Mercantile store at Barnard the night of November 19, 1924. With them was Arthur Henry, also of St. Joseph vicinity, on whom the authorities had most of the evidence. He broke jail January 13 and in February was killed in a gun fight in Kansas City. Spargur and Neal were later released during the April term because of the death of their confederate.

Neal, who gives Kansas City as his address, was taken into custody by St. Joseph police six miles south of St. Joseph. They are both held in jail on default of $5,000 bond each following arraignment in justice court there.

FRENCH FACE RIFFIAN CRISIS

SITUATION IS BECOMING INCREASINGLY SERIOUS.

PETAIN IS ON SCENE

Will Determine Weight of French Attack on Rebel Forces—Government May Recall Lyautey.

London, July 18.—French reverses and an increasingly serious situation in Morocco greeted Marshal Petain in his first day at Rabat, it was learned from dispatches received here today.

The hero of Verdun, whose responsibility it will be to determine the weight of the French attack necessary to turn back the victorious Riffs, arrived at Rabat via airplane from Barcelona last night.

At the same time, the position of the isolated French outposts was made more serious by the cutting of the Quezzan line at Ainaycha.

The government, dismayed by the long list of reverses suffered in the Riffian conflicts, is sending Marshal Petain to Morocco to arrange to recall Marshal Lyautey of Paris, it was learned from a reliable source today. It had hitherto been understood Lyautey was to remain in Morocco as administrative officer.

Leave Sunday for California.

Miss Betty Turner will leave tomorrow morning for Pasadena, Cal., where she will visit Mrs. C. E. Signs, formerly of Maryville, for two weeks. She will be accompanied by Miss Edwyna Forsyth, who will visit her aunt, Mrs. E. H. Williams. En route home next month Miss Forsyth will be the guest of Mrs. Henry Bohm of Denver, Colo.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 18. — The matter of signing your name 7,500 times doesn't sound such a difficult task, but take it from Governor Baker "it's a job." He spoke with authority too for he had just finished affixing his signature to 7,500 series "F" road bonds which were sold last month.

The bonds were in the denomination of $1,000 each and required the signature of the Governor, State Auditor, the Treasurer and Secretary of State. Secretary Becker is reported to have been the first to get through with the lot. He accomplished the marathon signature feat by working all day Sunday and couple of nights.

The governor is not reported to be suffering from writers cramp but is quite relieved to know that the matter has been finished.

The State law is such that no one could be delegated by the State's Supreme Executive to do the work for him.

This U. S. Employe Learns Much Scandal

21,000,000 Letters Are Read Annually By Officer To Determine Where To Send Them.

There is something of sacredness about the contents of a letter. The writer often reveals more of himself on the written page than he would in direct conversation. This revelation of course, is designed only for the eyes of the correspondent.

In this country a wholesome respect has been built up for the sanctity of a letter but it is not so respected in many other countries where the opening and reading of sealed mails becomes, at times, so prevalent that the practice has earned the appelation "cracking seals."

The average American would be filled with wrath and the timid soul would shrink with horror at the thought of a third person, and a stranger at that, reading his "personal correspondence."

Yet, that is exactly what happens to 21,000,000 letters a year and will continue so long as letter writers fail to put return addresses on their envelopes.

When a letter, without a return address, can not be delivered for any reason, it is sent, after a certain time, to the Dead Letter Office.

There it is opened and read—not for the possible scandal it may contain—but with a view to finding some clue which will enable forwarding on to the addressee or returning to the sender.

Out of every five letters received at the Dead Letter Office such a clue is found in one and it is sent merrily on its delayed way to one or the other of the two persons most interested in its disposition. The other four are destroyed.

Every person knows his own address and if he would put it on the envelope, the contents would remain inviolate and the letter would be returned with notice of non-delivery.

Martha Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton, underwent a tonsil operation at St. Francis Hospital this morning.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank the many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown during the sickness and death of my beloved wife.

Mr. C. A. Neal.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, July 18.—Grain futures dropped sharply in today's short session on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat closed with a rush of week-end and profit takers who took advantage of a sharp mid-morning advance. The rally from the lower opening was induced by renewed reports of excessive damage to spring crops and indications of improved foreign demand.

Pressure in corn was encouraged by ideal growing sections. Oats followed other grains. Provisions were lower.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 15.—The counting of the signatures attached to the referendum petition for a recall of the recently passed workmen's compensation law has begun in Secretary of State Becker's office.

The secretary stated today that there are more than 16,000 signatures above the number required by law. The petition was filed last Tuesday.

Opponents of the compensation act filed petitions from 14 of the congressional districts and presented a surplus of signatures from each district.

Becker said that under the law his duty is to merely count the signatures and certify to the correct number so that the issue might be put up for election. The matter of determining whether or not, signatures are fraudulent is left to the courts.

Miller Tax Stand Stirs St. Louis

Average Citizen, Who Has Not Paid State Income Tax, Takes New Heart.

St. Louis, July 18.—Dazed and duffeted by the inescapable back-hand wallops of old John Tax—harassed and dogged at every turn by cold-hearted officialdom seeking to extort the Government's portion of his daily pittance—meek and subdued Mr. Average Citizen, of St. Louis, has suddenly thrown back his shoulders, snapped his fingers in the tax collector's teeth and thrown down the gauntlet.

And this marvelous rejuvenation is solely attributed to the city's new Mayor, Victor J. Miller, who shocked the powers at Jefferson City, the State capital, and sent the surge of revolt through the veins of his "subjects" by declaring that the State income tax is unconstitutional and advising refusal of payment.

"I haven't even paid my own tax for two years. The State knows it is unconstitutional and has not tried to collect. As a lawyer, I've told my own clients to decline payment, and that goes for everybody," Mayor Miller said calmly.

Taxpayers Aroused.

Joy, consternation, indignation and intimidation followed. Those paying their taxes in the past excitedly clamored for action that might bring an ultimate refund of their contributions to the Government.

Those occupying the delinquency pages came out of hiding and walked boldly down the main thoroughfares.

Official Jefferson City dispatched notes, warnings and advice. Tax collectors were ordered to start immediate legal proceedings; but Mr. Average Citizen was aroused. Mayor Miller had explained just why, as a lawyer, he had found the State Income Tax law to be unconstitutional. Mayor Miller has some 250,000 votes at the polls and these 250,000 cohorts are firmly convinced that Mayor Miller knows whereof he suggests.

"I would suggest that the law be ignored," he said.

"I would suggest that you and everybody else pay the taxes," Governor Baker replied indirectly.

Officials Investigated.

For Mayor Miller's official family it means embarrassment. Investigation revealed that only about 1 per cent of the City Hall inmates had paid their taxes. Measures were by withholding the pay rolls. Judges, Councilmen, Aldermen and Commissioners—all were compelled to pay up.

But Mayor Miller stands pat—together with his thousands of supporters. So the State has decided to sue.

But Mr. Average Citizen, given great heart in the knowledge of his Mayor as a leader of the cause, stands boldly forth, his soup-stained mustache bristling in defiance and his once concave chest expanded with the exuberance of the challenge.

(July 6-13-18).

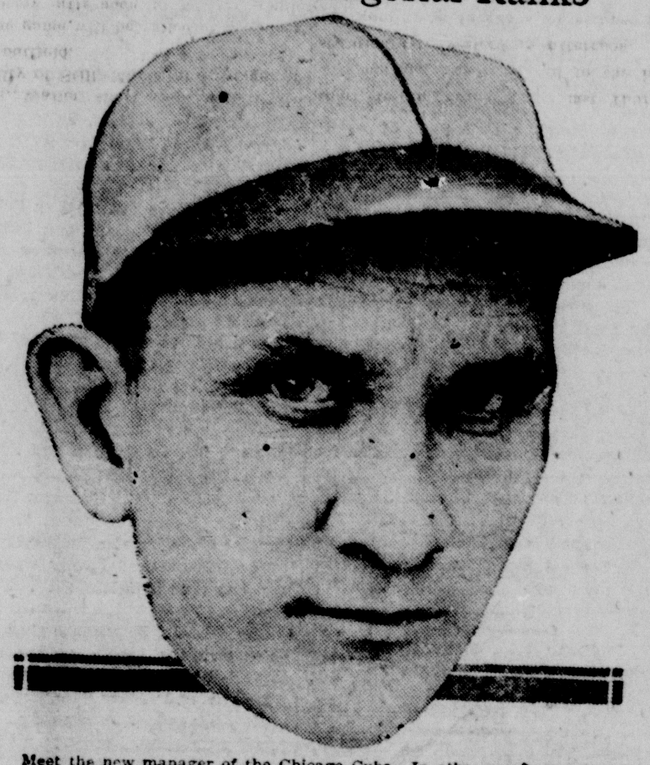
Titled Hurdler Wins

One of the stars of the recent international track and field meet between Harvard-Yale and Oxford-Cambridge was Lord Burghley, talented hurdler. Here he's depicted winning the high barrier event with Vilas, Yale ace, running him a close second. It was one of the most thrilling events of the day.

Joins Managerial Ranks



Meet the new manager of the Chicago Cubs. In other words permit us to introduce Mr. "Rabbit" Maranville, long regarded as one of the best infielders in the game. Maranville came to the Cubs in a trade with Pittsburg last winter. He's been playing professional ball over 15 seasons. He succeeds Bill Killefer, who piloted the Cubs since Aug. 4, 1921.

Pickering Team and M. M. B. C. Will Clash Tomorrow

Everything points toward a hard fought battle tomorrow when the Pickering Independents and the Maryville Merchants' will strive to outdo each other. Henry Buhler and Eugene Dixon are named to oppose each other on the mound, with T. Tobin and Carmichael as catchers.

The management of the Maryville Merchants' Club this afternoon was not in a position to definitely announce the exact line-up. However the infield may linup something like this:

Henry Buhler, pitcher, Tommy Tobin, catcher; Tilson, first base; Laughlin, second base; Meyers, third base; Waller, short stop; with a possibility of Still, Mayes and Steiger in the outfield.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Maryville Club park, the former fairgrounds.

The Merchants' team has scheduled a game for a week from Sunday against the St. Mary's nine. The Merchants are lending their hurler, Henry Buhler, to the St. Mary's team for the game.

NEWS OF MISSOURI CITIES AND TOWNS.

Jefefrson City, Mo., July 18.—A petition was filed in Cole Circuit Court here today asking a review of the St Louis-Kansas City short line Company case. The Short Line recently submitted its plans to the State Public Service Commission in order to secure a certificate of public necessity and convenience to build and operate an electric road across the state. The commission refused to grant the certificate until the Short Line company could prove their financial responsibility and show they were capable of carrying out the plans as drafted.

The line proposed by the company would start at Wellston, St. Louis county, across the Missouri river at or near St. Charles, traverse the counties of St. Charles, Warren, Montgomery, Callaway, Boone, and Howard and crossing the Missouri river again at Arrow Rock, would go to Kansas City through Saline, Lafayette and Jackson counties.

It was claimed by the company that it had spent $260,000 in the preliminary work of locating the line and had secured rights of way for virtually the entire two hundred and thirty-eight miles of its route across the state. The company was incorporated under the laws of Missouri with an authorized capital stock of $2,400,000. Of this amount 2,400 shares at par value $240,000 have been subscribed at 5 per cent thereof paid up, or $12,000 in all.

It was stated at the hearing that the line when built would connect with the terminal companies both in St. Louis and Kansas City.

Boonville, Mo., July 18. — Basil Jackson, Springfield, Mo., one of the seven boys who escaped from the Missouri Reform School here last Thursday morning was returned to the institution late yesterday afternoon.

According to Jackson, he escaped in the delivery truck of a local meat market and abandoned the car near Fayette. From Fayette he went to Kansas City and from that place to his home in Springfield. Relatives persuaded him to return.

The seven boys, according to Jackson, left the dormitory in their night clothing. He and a companion were the last to leave the school and did not accompany the five others who escaped, and therefore could give the authorities any information as to their whereabouts.

Jackson's companion is said to have left him in Kansas City. The delivery truck in which the boy and his "pal" escaped was located by officers with the assistance of Jackson.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 18.—Two cases in which J. D. Fenley, Fulton merchant was convicted of violating the state dry law, were reversed and remanded by Presiding Justice R. F. Walker in Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court. In one case Fenley was convicted of selling intoxicating liquor and in the other of transporting it.

DECLINES TO ACCEPT WILL

SHEPHERD MAY START MANDAMUS ACTION.

HOLDS ILL INFLUENCE

Much of Argument of Contestants' Counsel Is That Chief Beneficiary Drew Up Document Himself.

Chicago, July 18.—Basing his decision on "a presumption of undue influence," Probate Judge Horner yesterday refused to admit the will of William Nelson McClintock to probate.

Shepherd, principal beneficiary under the will of his foster son, offered the testament for probate several days ago.

Miss Pope, whose marriage to McClintock was prevented by the boy's sudden death last winter, was the recipient of an $8,000 annuity under the will. Heretofore she has held herself apart from the effort to block probate proceedings. The statement of her attorney today was over the vigorous objection of Weymouth Kirkland, attorney for Shepherd.

Shepherd, recently acquitted of charges of murder growing out of McClintock's sudden death last winter as he prepared to marry Miss Isabelle Pope, was the principal beneficiary under the will.

An estate in excess of $1,000,000 was involved.

Two Courses Open.

Two courses are still open to Shepherd. He may initiate chancery proceedings to mandamus the probate court to admit the will, or appeal today's decision to a higher court.

The first alternative involves the possibility of a protracted hearing on the long relationship between Shepherd and McClintock, with reference again to all allegations against Shepherd and his wife in the coroner's inquest into McClintock's death, and in Shephehrd's trial on charges of having administered typhoid germs to his ward. "I should like this case to leave the court with a finding of undue influence," said Judge Horner, "but because of a presumption of undue influence has been developed from the evidence of the attesting witnesses, I will deny this will to probate. It is part of the system in Illinois that while contestants are bound by the evidence of the attesting witnesses, the proponent of a will is likewise bound."

Pointing out that the proponent had recourse in other courts, he added: "It is the duty of the proponent to remove the presumption of undue influence."

Says Evidence Is Circumstantial

Much of the argument of contestants counsel was built on the assumption that the will was drawn by Shepherd, the beneficiary, himself. The cover bearing his name and the address of his law office was stressed as evidence.

Mr. Kirkland, in his argument, contended that the evidence that Mr. Shepherd drew the will was circumstantial and inconclusive.

"The cover suggests that the document came from the office of Mr. Shepherd," said Judge Horner. "The name and address on the cover are like a letterhead. The normal inference from a letterhead is that the letter came from the office named in the head."

During the argument the name of Miss Isabelle Pope, financee of McClintock, was brought into the proceedings in an exchange of remarks between Mr. Kirkland and John J. Healy. Miss Pope's attorney. Mr. Kirkland, charging that Miss Pope's interest in the proceedings was in part financial, intimated she would be wiser to keep out of the will fight, in view of "certain of her letters" which Kirkland said were in his possession.

Mr. Healy rose to his feet with an objection. The court cautioned both attorneys to restrict debate to the issues, adding: "All this helps neither side."

WILLYS-OVERLAND · FINE · MOTOR · CARS

If You Knew What Every Willys-Knight Owner Knows, You'd be driving a Willys-Knight Car

Up to June 30, this year, there were 200,000 Willys-Knight cars in active service.

And on that day and date, those owners were experiencing a degree of car-satisfaction the average owner wouldn't believe could exist in any motor car.

30,000, 40,000, 50,000 miles—not a day out of active commission, not a dollar spent for engine repairs . . . Not an uncommon experience among Willys-Knight owners . . . No carbon troubles. No valves to grind.

The patented Willys-Knight engine does away with both . . .

To the exceptional engine efficiency of the Willys-Knight is added another exclusive advantage—absolute lack of vibration, due to the Lanchester Balancer. The Willys-Knight is the only automobile in the United States equipped with this device . . .

These things the Willys-Knight owner knows, and, knowing, counts on keeping his Willys-Knight two and three times as long as any other car.
